TREASURER KROLICKI MEETS WITH US TREASURY SECRETARY SNOW

(Carson City, NV) – In Washington, DC for the National Association of State Treasurer's (NAST) annual legislative conference, State Treasurer Brian K. Krolicki had the privilege of introducing U.S. Treasury Secretary John Snow at a meeting of his colleagues from around the nation. Secretary Snow spoke to the group about several timely issues, including currency exchange rates, budget deficits and international monetary policy.

"Secretary Snow was quite frank – and welcomingly so – in his remarks to the state treasurers," said Treasurer Krolicki. "He touched on many of the topics that are of concern to me, including how projected budget deficits may impact the states and the economic importance of a strong dollar."

Snow also touched on NAST's recent corporate governance activities during Treasurer Krolicki's presidency, and the resulting impact on corporate scandals and corruption in the marketplace.

"Yours is a group that has helped in those efforts, and I want to thank you for what you've done to rebuild investor confidence, boost market confidence and protect shareholder value. Your voices are very important in this area and we welcome your input and the example you set," said Secretary Snow.

Treasurer Krolicki continues his role as chairman of NAST's corporate governance committee. The organization collectively represents more than $1.1 trillion in state funds.
